POLI'S.

ning of the fall and winter season tomerrow afterneon with David Belasco's most successful play, "The Heart of Maryland." The Poli management was leased Mrs. Leslie Carter's production of the play, and it will be presented tust as originally produced at this same theater nincteen years ago. Its action is laid in the second year of the civil war and occurs in Bonnesboro, a quaint little Southern town, "green-walled by the hills of Maryland." The big scene of the play comes at the very end when Maryland Calvert, the heroine of the comance, muffles the alarums of a great bell by chinging with her bare hands to the chapper, thus stopping a warn ng to the countryside that her lover has escaped from prison. The character of Maryland Calvert will give Miss Jewell this week one of the most appealing roles she has ever played. Mr. Brickert will have his first opportunity here as a romantic actor in the character of young Alan Kendrick.

COLUMBIA.

A wealth of motion picture excellence awaits audiences at the Columbia Theater, where the second week of the Lyman Howe travel festival will be inagurated this afternoon at 3 o'clock with daily matinees thereafter at 2:15 and evening performances at 8:15, except next Saturday. The company has been booked to open in a Western city Sunday afternoon and to meet the engagement it is necessary to leave on an early train. The Howe pictures are different from all others not only in the way the subjects are selected, but be-cause every scene is accompanied by the sound that would be heard in nature—a field in which no other exhibitor attempts to compete. The great thrild of the new program will be provided in a runaway train which is entirely in a runaway train which is entirely different from the one presented by Mr. Howe several years ago. Starting at a normal speed, it rapidly increases in momentum and finally plunges down an inclined plane at a velocity that gives spectators the experience of a lifetime.

KEITH'S.

A dual star vaudeville attraction will focus public attention upon the B. F Keith Theater tomorrow. The second season of the Keith regime will be inaugurated at the matinee and the management believes it will surpass the first season. COMING PLAYS.

Labor Day will mark the opening of which the American troops and the al-lies played so important a part. Mr. Strong is probably best known through his earlier work. "The Toymaker of Nuremberg" and "The Little Father of the Wilderness," in which Francis Wil-son starred, and in which Mr. Strong and Lloyd Osbourne collaborated. Promise and Lloyd Osbourne collaborated, Pron and Lloyd Osbourne collaborated. Prominent in the large cast will be found, among others, Frank Mills, Frederic de Belleville, Paul Everton, Lowell Sherman, Robert Peyton Gibbs, Gladys Hanson, Ida Waterman, Mabel Mortimer, Suzanne Halphren, Madge Corcoran, Emmy Oswald, and Grace Lyon. The advance sale of seats will begin on Thursday next.

At the Columbia Theater the second week of the Lyman H. Howe Travel Festival will be opened this afternoon as 5 o'clock with an entire change of program. The evening performance will start at 8:15 and at both the Sunday performances the program will be entirely the same as that to be presented Thursday next. "A Fool There Was," based upon the Rudyard Kipling poem, is announced as next week's attraction at Poll's. The story begins with a remarkable scene.

A big ocean liner is about to sail for Europe. A crowd of tourists and their friends bustle about the deck. A hagtard young man wildly seeks the woman who has ruined him, to kill her. She saunters on crimson earlied. her. She saunters on, crimson garbed. The boy threatens her. She surveys him with amusement. A shot rings out. The lad is a suicide. A moment later, she is looking into the eyes of a well-poised man of the world. That is the beginning of the play built around the creation, whom Kipling strips to "A Rag, a Bone and a lisnk of Hair."

Ineater with a bill offering for its premiere here, "Sergeant Bagby," played by a noteworthy cast. Another star offering will be Ray Samuels, who rejoices in the title of "Ragtime's Blue Streak." Third among the conspicuous attractions will be the "Great" Leon and his company, giving fifteen mystifying illusions. The bill will also include Ben Ryan and Hariette Lee, Edwin magician, The Two There were at the Two There are no overture; selections with Puccinits "Madame Butterfly;" the Tschalkowshy "Reverie; selections from Herbert's "The Red Mill," and Strauss "Beautiful Blue Danube Waltzes" will be some of the selections in the orchestral program at the Cosmos Theater concerts today under Arthur Manvell. The usual attractions will appear with new specialties, in a series of continuous concerts running from 3 to 19:30 p. m.

and last week at the Columbia Theater a week from tomorrow night. To properly present it, Mr. Howe will send to Washington a special corps of experts to operate the intricate sound effects that prove so distinctive and important a feature of the Howe offerings.

Ben Weich will be seen to accompany the film production.

Of most timely interest is the story of "The Birth of The Star Spangled Barner," which is to be told in a picture play at Crandall's today as the leading feature of the Sunday program, the film has been prepared by the Edition Company with great faithfulness to historical detail.

GLEN ECHO.

Labor Day will mark the opening of the New National Theater for the season of 1914-15, and as the first atraction the management announces one of the important premieres of the season. Klaw & Erlanger will present, under the personal direction of Henry Miller. Strong, "The Dragon's Claw." The play will be very pretentious in scenery and effects, and the cast will number more than a hundred people. The scenes are laid in China during the Boxer uprising, in which the American troops and the al-With the open season for amusement orchestra with a "request program," night.
